Seven weeks. Thirty-five days. One project standing between your team and the deadline - your team commits five days at a time, resolves them all at once, then closes the week and moves on. From week 2, Events crash into the week you already committed to - spend Adaptability to re-plan around them or cancel them outright. Deliver every Feature before Week 7 closes to win the project - but hit a Team Score above the upper line (5 for every character you started with, plus 125) and you didn't just finish it, you built a team that could survive doing it again: Sustainable High Performance.

Setting up

About fifteen minutes, and the first part is the best part.

1. Deal each player five habitus parts at random and assemble the figure onto the Specimen board.

1. Take the matching NEED tile (your VALUES) and HERO tile (your PRESSURE RESPONSE), and slot those too.

1. Turn over board THE ZONE. Mark one square on the SKILLS grid on your own person board:

where your Head's row meets your Item's column.

1. Read what Learn/Teach do in one line each - no detail needed yet.
2. Pick one PROJECT card. Turn THE PROJECT face up and seat it - it names features A-F.
3. Read the project and its six features together - complexity, LOCK tiles across D and F, what unlocks what.

1. Go through the Activity cards that come out now: Work, Engagement, Celebrate, Workshop, Plan. The rest wait for later weeks.

Finish the room

- Every board starts on its back. Read the back of THE ZONE first: it is the introduction. When set-up is done, turn THE ZONE and THE PROJECT over. SHIT HAPPENS and THE TEAM stay on their backs; THE DEVELOPMENT stays boxed.

- Motivation 5 for every character. Week marker on Week 1. Shuffle the Events but don't draw yet.

- Everything on the covered boards already sits at 1. It just isn't your problem for a few more weeks.

Week 1

Deliberately almost trivial - lay five cards, resolve them, close the week.

Only THE PROJECT and THE ZONE are face up. Shit Happens, Adapt and the Ledger wait for week 2; the Specimen panel on your person board isn't read until week 3.

1 · Plan the week

Lay five Activity cards across Monday to Friday. They are the team's cards - nobody plays one. A slot may instead take a Flex marker, giving back a day someone worked as Overtime. Then stop. Nothing has resolved.

2 · The week runs

Resolve all five cards. Order does not matter - the week happened at once, not one day at a time.

3 · Close the week

Bank any feature that finished (lift its lock, if any, and pay Capital). Everyone then loses 1 Motivation - the weekly grind. Nobody empties out on week 1 alone, so there is nothing else to check yet. Move the week marker one step closer to the deadline. That's the whole week - three steps, no exceptions.

bank before the grind - it's the only spend this week.

From week 2

THE TEAM turns face up: the Ledger - Trust, Capability, Shared Practice, Standing - starts being read at Close the Week, and your Need (the tile on your person board) starts being checked. Adaptability is a shared pile of adapt tokens on Shit Happens. Nothing else about a week changes yet.

A week is five days, and you choose them. That's the entire idea, before anything else gets added to it.

Flip this sheet when Week 1 closes → Week 2 on is on the back

The same five days, but the table has more to say about them with every week that passes.

The pulse, from week 2 on

The same five steps, every week until week 7 closes.

1 · Plan the week

Lay five Activity cards across Monday to Friday - the team's cards, nobody plays one. Then stop. Nothing has resolved.

2 · Shit happens

Draw two Event cards, face up - and do not resolve them yet. They are threats, aimed at the week you already committed. A day spent on the wrong thing is simply lost.

3 · Adapt

Spend adapt tokens from the shared pool: pay an Event's ADAPT number to cancel it outright.

4 · The week runs

Resolve whatever survived Adapt, then all five cards. Order does not matter - the week happened at once.

5 · Close the week

Bank completed features (lift any lock) → walk the Ledger coins, at most one step each, and flip any that reached its ring → Motivation as one net number: −1 for the grind - every week, ±1 per matching Event category per Torso (check who was hit and who was immune), +1 if the Need was met.

bank first - it lifts locks and tells you whether Celebrate had something to mark.
apply motivation as one number, then check for zero.

Week 2: the Ledger (with Standing and Capital), the Adaptability pool, your Need, and Shit Happens/Adapt, together. The Demo card opens, with Learn, Teach and Reflect. Week 3: the Development + the Flex and Overtime part of the Specimen panel. No new cards. Week 4: nothing new. Week 5: nothing new. Combos have been open since week 1: two named triggers in the same week pay a small bonus on top of what they already did alone (rulebook §18.1).

How it ends

The project ends when Week 7 closes.

Team Score = (features × 12) + (3 tracks + adapt tokens, max 21) + (Motivation) + (12 × Habits held) − (40 × quits) − (2 × unrepaid Flex) − (5 × tracks that finish at 0 or 1)

If any feature is missing, the Team Score is 0. It never goes below 0.

Two lines: 5 for every character you started with, plus 75 (lower) and 5 for every character, plus 125 (upper).

Outcome	Condition
Failure	Not everything delivered.	The score is 0.
Heroic Success	All six banked, score under the lower line.	The project made it. The team didn't.
Sustainable Performance	All six banked, score between the two lines.	The team held together.
High Performance	All six banked, score on or over the upper line.	You built a team as well.

If you only had thirty-five working days, how would you spend them?
